EXPLOSIONS RAGE TODAY IN CHICAGO LOOP

FIREMEN PREVENT OVER HALF MILLION DOLLARS DAMAGE

THOUSANDS WATCH MOST SPECTACULAR FIRE IN RECENT CHICAGO HISTORY

FIRST BLAST IN RADIO COMPANY PLANT STARTS FIRE, OTHERS FOLLOW QUICKLY

Chicago, April 5.—(U.P.)—A series of explosions burst out today in the loop, endangering flames that carried peril to life and property. Firemen, answering a general alarm, prevented more than $500,000 damage, while thousands of late theater goers and other curious watched the most spectacular fire in recent Chicago history.

The fire, in the plant of the Western Radio Manufacturing Company, had reached such a stage by 5 A. M. that all the available fire fighting equipment in the downtown district was called out. Thousands of curious watched the flames race to the top of the structure, as street, elevated and automobile traffic was cut off.

At 6 A. M. today the flaming embers of the fire were declared to be the end and the final damage done. The total would not exceed $500,000, firemen said.

An explosion in the radio company plant started the first conflagration, firemen said. Within a few seconds flames were shooting into the offices of the Office Furniture Clearing House and the Slack Novelty Clearing House. Explosions, in split-second order, followed the outburst.

Fire Marshal Michael Corrigan suffered a cut under one eye when he and a group of assistants were showered with broken glass.

The fire, attacking a strategic center, cut off the homeward journey of scores of passengers who live on the north side. Automobiles were tied up for miles.

Firemen clambered to four stories to fight the flames and a fire boat added its hoses. Fire fighters utilized two towers before the flames were brought under control.

One-fourth of the whole city's fire fighting forces went out to battle the flames under the personal direction of Fire Marshal Corrigan. The fire boat Graeme Stewart steamed to the danger zone between 124 and 126 West Lake Street, where the flames were billowing the most fiercely.

Down from the towering skyscrapers of Wacker Drive came the heavy artillery of the Chicago fire-fighting systematic barrage of water in boring 10-inch streams. Other galling-gun bombardment of water went on from the street. Shattered glass rained like fragments from a bombarded city.

Fifteen of Marshal Corrigan's men were trapped temporarily by the flames. The super-structure of fire reared itself between the eaves of the building and the horizon. But Chicago's fire ladders were up to the task of the moment. They raced across the several hundred feet separating them from the flaming structure that held their chief.

They raced up the ladders that led to the fiery stronghold he held. Down the ladders to safety they bore him, as they bore the others trapped in upper stories of the ill-fated structure.

Chief Corrigan estimated actual damage at more than $300,000. He said that the excellent work of his men had prevented additional damage of at least $200,000, or a half million dollars in all.

While auto traffic was held up for miles and all north side interurban transportation awaited extinguishing of the fire, Fire Marshal Corrigan took personal charge. He refused to go to a hospital to have his wounds dressed and insisted on leading his men in charge after charge against the blaze that flared as the most dangerous the department had faced in months.

"I'm all right. Let me at 'em," he shouted.

Guests at the Sherman, Astor and other loop hotels were driven to the street. More than 300 automobiles in the Sherman's Lake Street annex were marooned by smoke.

The entire northern section of the loop, included the city's famous rendezvous for gamblers, racketeers and hoodlums, was doused with a blanket of dense black smoke.

Through this fog the flames flared bright enough to be seen from the south edge of the loop.

From whatever vantage points they could find, firemen battled the flames from the cornices of the new $11,000,000 LaSalle building on Wacker Drive.

CARVER CHARGED WITH MURDER

Sebring, Fla., April 5.—(U.P.)—The case of William H. Carver, Sebring realtor charged with murder of his wife, their 2-year-old son and a negro servant, was placed before the Highlands county grand jury today by State's Attorney Brady Burton.

Outcome of the grand jury proceedings was problematical, but it was indicated Carver himself would be called as a witness. Some kind of a definite report from the jury was anticipated during the afternoon.

To Air Prohibition Fight in Democratic Party

SON OF GERMAN PRESIDENT THROWN FROM HIS HORSE

London, April 5.—(U.P.)—Lieut. Colonel Oskar von Hindenburg, son of the German president, was thrown from his horse yesterday and severely injured, according to the Exchange Telegraph company. Von Hindenburg's foot caught in the stirrup and he was dragged several yards.

NOT BELIEVED ENGLAND WILL AGREE WITH FRANCE

RELATE TO THE GUARANTEE CLAUSES IN LEAGUE OF NATIONS COVENANT

JAPANESE "BIG NAVY" MEN DEMAND EXPANSION OF JAPAN'S AIR PROGRAM

Paris, April 5.—(U.P.)—Hope was fading fast here today that Britain would agree to the French military interpretations of the guarantee clauses in article XVI of the League of Nations covenant.

French hopes that, failing a five-power naval pact, four-power accord could be signed before the conference breaks up, waned today also, in the face of implications Italy would increase her naval construction at once if left out of the treaty.

London, April 5.—In compensation for having failed to obtain the full Japanese naval demands at London, the Japanese "big navy" men are demanding extreme expansion of the nation's air program, the Exchange Telegraph Company's Tokyo correspondent said today.

The air service, it was declared, contemplates the creation of ten new aviation corps.

London, April 5.—The American delegation to the London naval conference will go home April 22 with a treaty between the United States, Great Britain and Japan as the sole result of their labors since January, unless unexpected developments occur within the next few days.

The repeated refusal of Italy to recede from her demand for absolute naval parity with France, and the seeming inability of the powers to reach a satisfactory understanding on French security unquestionably led to the decision of the Americans to bring the conference to an end.

A definite decision next week on whether a five-power agreement can be reached at the conference was predicted today in British sources.

Under present plans, they will leave England two weeks from next Tuesday on the Leviathan.

It is emphasized, however, that the reservations made for that date are merely tentative, and should conditions warrant, they will be cancelled.

It was also stated that the attempt to reach a basis for a security pact would not be discontinued, and the British and French experts continued their discussions today, looking for a satisfactory formula.

FUNERAL RITES FOR SWEDISH QUEEN TO BE HELD MONDAY

Rome, April 5.—(U.P.)—A squad of Royal Carabinieri in full dress uniform mounted guard at the bier of Queen Victoria of Sweden, as her body lay in state today in the same room of the Roman villa where she died last night.

Funeral services will be held Monday, and a special train, bearing the late queen, King Gustav, Prince William, and the queen's granddaughter, Princess Ingrid, will leave Rome for Stockholm Monday evening.

CHICAGO'S MOST SPLENDIDEROUS NIGHT CLUB CLOSED

Chicago, April 5.—(U.P.)—One of Chicago's most splendid night clubs was closed today.

Federal agents padlocked the Stables, one of the most famous night clubs in America, yesterday and thus brought to a close a reign of gaiety that had been equalled at few joy spots in the country.

Tucked away on the near north side, Bert Kelly's Stables served as an enigma to Chicagoans and as an appetizing illusion to strangers. Kelly had invented the modern jazz band and opened his "joint" to customers who delighted to trod in straw and carve their own initials on the walls and floor.

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward upheld the convictions and denied appeals.

Ultimate Fate of Muscle Shoals Now is a Matter of Conjecture in Nation's Capital

SENATE PASSES NORRIS BILL BY VOTE OF 45-23

PROVIDES FOR GOVERNMENT OPERATION OF $100,000,000 POWER, NITRATE PLANT

SENATORS FRAZIER, NYE, SHIPSTEAD AND SCHALL WERE FOR THE BILL

Washington, April 5.—(U.P.)—The ultimate fate of Muscle Shoals was a matter of conjecture in the capital today after the senate's action late yesterday in passing, 45 to 23, the Norris bill for government operation of the $100,000,000 power and nitrate plant.

It was the third time the senate has passed Muscle Shoals measures. One was allowed to die in the house while the other was nullified by President Coolidge's pocket veto.

The Norris bill took its place on the house's legislative schedule today, but it is not certain it will be voted on during this session. Even if passed by the house the bill's fate at the hands of President Hoover is uncertain.

The roll call showed Senators Frazier, Nye and Schall and Shipstead for the bill.

Among those paired for the bill were Blaine and LaFollette.

Government in Danger of Losing Railroad Control

Washington, April 5.—(U.P.)—The government is in danger of losing control over railroad unification unless legislation is enacted giving the I. C. C. authority to regulate holding companies, Joseph B. Eastman of the commission, told the house interstate commerce committee today at the outset of its railroad holding company investigation.

ASK RESTRAINING ORDER AGAINST G. N. N. P. MERGER

Washington, April 5.—(U.P.)—The Minnesota congressional delegation in a telegram today asked Gov. Christianson of Minnesota to obtain a temporary restraining order against merger of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads until congress has had an opportunity to pass upon measures authorizing an investigation of the situation.

PREMIER TARDIEU RECOVERS FROM HIS ILLNESS

Paris, April 5.—(U.P.)—Premier Andre Tardieu, apparently recovered from his attack of indigestion, went to the senate today to take personal charge of the government's efforts to obtain ratification by the upper chamber of the Young reparations plan.

Tardieu intended to remain at the senate even if an all night session were required.

Debate began at 10 a. m. with a score of senators seeking to speak on the subject.

TRANSCONTINENTAL FLIER FORCED DOWN AT FT. WAYNE, IND.

Glendale, Calif., April 5.—(U.P.)—Representatives of the Kinner Motor Co. here were informed today that A. M. Moody, attempting a non-stop flight from Los Angeles to New York City, was forced down at Fort Wayne, Ind. Officials of the company said they understood that Moody was not injured. No details as to the cause of the forced landing were received.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 5.—(U.P.)—Rudy Vallee, screen player and radio singer, was charged with pirating the song "I'm Just a Vagabond Lover," in a $1,000,000 damage suit filed today by Roberta Hudson McKay, 26.

COMELY NURSE AND PAL NAMED AS GANG 'BRAINS'

MISS RUTH JONES, MRS. EDITH CASPUTES HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR ROBBERIES

DETROIT WOMEN BELIEVED TO HAVE STAGED HOLDUP OF TOLEDO BANK

Detroit, April 5.—(U.P.)—A comely student nurse, Miss Ruth Jones, 23, and her companion, Mrs. Edith Casputes, 35, today were named by police as the "brains" of a gang held responsible for two Detroit bank robberies, the holdup of a Toledo bank last week, and a dozen other major Detroit robberies.

Miss Jones and Leonard Kovie, whom police say is her sweetheart, have confessed, according to Inspector William Collins. The others held are Ralph Benham, and Samuel, Harry and Thomas Boroo, brothers.

Police say Kovie admitted he and his four companions staged the Toledo robbery, in which $7,000 was obtained. He also admitted taking part in the robbery of a branch of the Detroit First National Bank Thursday afternoon when $2,200 was obtained, and the $5,000 payroll holdup at the Providence hospital, Feb. 15.

A third bank robbery in which $6,000 was obtained Feb. 11, also is charged to the gang by police, but Kovie has denied complicity in that holdup.

According to Collins, Miss Jones and Mrs. Casputes planned the "jobs" for the men. At banks they would open accounts, study the interior arrangement, draw diagrams and then start their male companions on the actual robbery, he said.

The Providence hospital robbery and a subsequent attempt on the hospital payroll which failed, they say, were outlined by Miss Jones, who until four months ago was in training there.

CONGRESS TODAY

Senate
Recessed until Monday.
Judiciary subcommittee hears protests on confirmation of John J. Parker, S. C., to be supreme court justice.

House
Recessed until Monday.
Interstate commerce committee begins railway hearings.

SENATE LOBBY COMMITTEE TO CONDUCT PROBE

CONTROVERSY IN PARTY SAID TO HAVE DRIVEN SOUTH TO REPUBLICANS IN 1928

JOSEPHUS DANIELS, DRY, AND HENRY H. CURRAN, WET, TO TESTIFY
By PAUL R. MALLON

Washington, April 5.—The prohibition controversy in the democratic party, which is said to have driven the south into the republican column in 1928, is to be aired by republicans before the senate lobby committee.

As part of the republican strategy on the prohibition issue, Senator Robinson, dry republican of Indiana, has called Josephus Daniels, ardent democrat, dry, and Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, to appear before the lobby committee Tuesday.

Robinson wants to question Daniels about an editorial in the Raleigh, N. C. News and Observer, contending John J. Raskob, chairman of the democratic national committee, had mixed his wet views with democratic party politics and therefore should resign. Raskob vigorously denied this when before the committee yesterday.

He said he exercised extreme care that his $66,000 of contributions to the anti-prohibition organization should not involve the party and testified he had not tried to convert any democrat to the wet cause.

From Curran, Robinson hopes to get an audit of the books of the association to see if any of Raskob's money was used to finance propaganda against dry democrats or for wet republican candidates for congress.

While the two men are being called ostensibly as a part of the investigation of wet lobbies, political aims are believed to be involved. Democratic members of the lobby committee have indicated they will let Robinson go as far as he likes in calling witnesses. They realize that with prohibition mixed up in the coming congressional elections a ticklish issue is involved.

If Robinson gets nothing more from Daniels than an affirmation of his editorial against Raskob, he will have brought to public attention at the correct political time the democratic divergence over prohibition in 1928. He believes this may react against the democrats in November.

The audit of the association books, however, is expected to show Raskob's contributions, like others, were used to finance wet and anti-dry publicity without mentioning individual candidates for office, republican or democratic, wet or dry.

Meanwhile, the prohibition controversy is being carried into other fields.

The treasury and post office appropriation bill providing about $36,000,000 for enforcement next year is to be taken up for discussion in the senate Monday. On the same day, Attorney General Mitchell will appear before the senate judiciary committee to comment on the proposal to investigate prohibition enforcement.

The house today began a hunt for the real owners of American railroads, whom the interstate commerce commission has charged with hiding in a thicket of holding companies.

The interstate commerce committee, which will seek to find out who owns railroad stocks, summoned Joseph B. Eastman, liberal interstate commerce commission member, as the first witness to testify at its investigation.

Eastman's testimony is expected to require nearly a week and to lay the groundwork for the entire inquiry. After getting from Eastman the information the commission has gathered about holding companies, the committee will discontinue hearings pending the return of questionnaires sent out by W. M. W. Splawn, its special counsel.

The questionnaire will go to about 400 holding companies, but representatives of only the larger and more important ones will be summoned before this committee. Among these probably will be representatives of the Pennrod Company, which holds Pennsylvania railroad stocks, and of the Allegheny Corporation, controlled by the Van Sweringen brothers.

Meanwhile in the senate the same charge of "mental bias" which was raised against nomination of Charles Evans Hughes as chief justice of the supreme court was hurled by organized labor today to prevent confirmation of Judge John J. Parker, of North Carolina, as associate justice.

Parker "has shown a judicial and mental bias in favor of powerful corporations and against the masses of the people," William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, charged in an open letter to members of the senate judiciary committee. He also appeared before a subcommittee of that committee to protest verbally against Parker's confirmation.

In his letter to the judiciary committee, Green declared confirmation of Parker would mean "that another injunction judge will become a member of the supreme court of the United States."

PENNSYLVANIA POWDER BLAST

CLINIC PHYSICIAN ON WAY TO FLORIDA TO SEE ROCKNE

Miami Beach, Fla., April 5.—(U.P.)—Dr. J. C. Barborka, Mayo clinic physician, is en route to Miami Beach to accompany Knute Rockne back to Rochester, Minn., for a "thorough going over," Rockne admitted today.

The famous Notre Dame football coach, who previously had denied the physician was summoned because of his condition, emphasized that Dr. Barborka was not coming here for a consultation.

"I'm feeling fine," he said. "I'm planning to go back north this week end and Barborka, who is a friend of the family, merely is coming south to go back with me. He's not called in consultation on my case."

EFFORTS MADE TO RESCUE AMERICAN MISSIONARY IN CHINA

Washington, April 5.—(U.P.)—The city of Yanchow where Miss Nina Gemmel of Girard, Kan., and two British subjects were captured by Chinese bandits, has been entered by government forces, the state department was informed today by Walter A. Adams, U. S. consul at Nanking.

His message said Chinese government troops were in control of Yanchow and delegates had been sent there to act in behalf of the missionaries held by bandits.

FIRST DOWN TRIP OF 1930 NAVIGATION SEASON ON RIVER

St. Paul, April 5.—(U.P.)—The towboat S. S. Thorpe with a tow of three barges will leave the St. Paul levee at noon today on the first down-river trip of the 1930 navigation season. The barges were carrying a full load, including a shipment of road graders consigned to San Francisco by an all-water route through the Panama canal.

SENATE LOBBY COMMITTEE TO CONDUCT PROBE

CONTROVERSY IN PARTY SAID TO HAVE DRIVEN SOUTH TO REPUBLICANS IN 1928

JOSEPHUS DANIELS, DRY, AND HENRY H. CURRAN, WET, TO TESTIFY
By PAUL R. MALLON

Washington, April 5.—The prohibition controversy in the democratic party, which is said to have driven the south into the republican column in 1928, is to be aired by republicans before the senate lobby committee.

As part of the republican strategy on the prohibition issue, Senator Robinson, dry republican of Indiana, has called Josephus Daniels, ardent democratic dry, and Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, to appear before the lobby committee Tuesday.

Robinson wants to question Daniels about an editorial in the Raleigh, N. C. News and Observer, contending John J. Raskob, chairman of the democratic national committee, had mixed his wet views with democratic party politics and therefore should resign.

Raskob vigorously denied this when before the committee yesterday. He said he exercised extreme care that his $68,000 of contributions to the anti-prohibition organization should not involve the party and testified he had not tried to convert any democrat to the wet cause.

From Curran, Robinson hopes to get an audit of the books of the association to see if any of Raskob's money was used to finance propaganda against dry democrats or for wet republican candidates for congress.

While the two men are being called ostensibly as a part of the investigation of wet lobbies, political aims are believed to be involved. Democratic members of the lobby committee have indicated they will let Robinson go as far as he likes in calling witnesses.

They realize that with prohibition mixed up in the coming congressional elections a ticklish issue is involved. He believes this may react against the democrats in November.

The audit of the association books, however, is expected to show Raskob's contributions, like others, were used to finance wet and anti-dry publicity without mentioning individual candidates for office, republican or democratic, wet or dry.

Meanwhile, the prohibition controversy is being carried into other fields. The treasury and post office appropriation bill providing about $24,000,000 for enforcement next year is to be taken up for discussion in the senate Monday. On the same day, Attorney General Mitchell will appear before the senate judiciary committee to comment on the proposal to investigate prohibition enforcement.

The house today began a hunt for the real owners of American railroads, whom the interstate commerce commission has charged with hiding in a thicket of holding companies.

The interstate commerce committee, which will seek to find out who owns railroad stocks, summoned Joseph B. Eastman, liberal interstate commerce commission member, as the first witness to testify at its investigation.

Eastman's testimony is expected to require nearly a week and to lay the groundwork for the entire inquiry. After getting from Eastman the information the commission has gathered about holding companies, the committee will discontinue hearings pending the return of questionnaires sent out by W. M. W. Splawn, its special counsel.

The questionnaire will go to about 400 holding companies, but representatives of only the larger and more important ones will be summoned before this committee. Among these probably will be representatives of the Pennroad Company, which holds Pennsylvania railroad stocks, and of the Allegheny Corporation, controlled by the Van Sweringen brothers.

Meanwhile in the senate the same charge of "mental bias" which was raised against nomination of Charles Evans Hughes as chief justice of the supreme court was hurled by organized labor today to prevent confirmation of Judge John J. Parker, of North Carolina, as associate justice.

Parker "has shown a judicial and mental bias in favor of powerful corporations and against the masses of the people," William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, charged in an open letter to members of the senate judiciary committee. He also appeared before a sub-committee of that committee to protest verbally against Parker's confirmation.

In his letter to the judiciary committee, Green declared confirmation of Parker would mean "that another injudicious judge will become a member of the supreme court of the United States."

MARY SUDIK WILD GUSHER BREAKS ITS SPECIAL CAPPING

TAMED 8 HOURS, THEN ROARS AGAIN IN OKLAHOMA CITY OIL FIELD

SAND DRIVEN AGAINST 2500 LB. GATE WORE IT TO SHREDS

Oklahoma City, April 5.—(U.P.)—The Mary Sudik wild gusher roared into the morning mists of the South City field today with as much violence as ever.

After being a captive less than eight hours, the huge gusher early today crashed through specially designed connections which were placed yesterday.

It was the tenth day the well has been wild.

Shortly before last midnight guards at the location reported that connections were weakening. Sand driven upward by a tremendous pressure of the great depth gradually wore thru the Shaffer gate which had been welded from combinations of hard metals. Scouts notice the huge 2500-pound gate waver for an hour.

Then it snapped. With a roar that aroused workmen on nearby leases the oil and gas column shot skyward again.

Immediately, the fire hazard that caused state and county officials to declare an area 50 square miles under blockade, threatened the field. Residents of Capitol Hill, a south suburb of the city, were aroused after going to bed last night for the first time several days without oil mists gathering in their homes and the roaring gas disturbing them.

Officials said it was not the tremendous pressure of the well that caused the gate to fail as much as it was the sand cutting. With greater force than any man-made blast, sand rose in the role in a steady stream. It cut the casing protruding from the hole into shreds. It was believed the sand had damaged the gate from the time between 3 P. M. and 6 P. M. yesterday when the well was only partially under control.

CLINIC PHYSICIAN ON WAY TO FLORIDA TO SEE ROCKNE

Miami Beach, Fla., April 5.—(U.P.)—Dr. J. C. Barborka, Mayo clinic physician, is en route to Miami Beach to accompany Knute Rockne back to Rochester, Minn., for a "thorough going over," Rockne admitted today.

The famous Notre Dame football coach, who previously had denied the physician was summoned because of his condition, emphasized that Dr. Barborka was not coming here for a consultation.

"I'm feeling fine," he said. "I'm planning to go back north this week end and Barborka, who is a friend of the family, merely is coming south to go back with me. He's not called in consultation on my case."

EFFORTS MADE TO RESCUE AMERICAN MISSIONARY IN CHINA

Washington, April 5.—(U.P.)—The city of Yanchow where Miss Nina Gemmel of Girard, Kan., and two British subjects were captured by Chinese bandits, has been entered by government forces, the state department was informed today by Walter A. Adams, U. S. consul at Nanking.

His message said Chinese government troops were in control of Yanchow and delegates had been sent there to act in behalf of the missionaries held by bandits.

FIRST DOWN TRIP OF 1930 NAVIGATION SEASON ON RIVER

St. Paul, April 5.—(U.P.)—The towboat S. S. Thorpe with a tow of three barges will leave the St. Paul levee at noon today on the first down-river trip of the 1930 navigation season. The barges were carrying a full load, including a shipment of road graders consigned to San Francisco by an all-water route through the Panama canal.

Ten persons were known to be dead, five others are missing and more than a score were injured, five possibly fatally, when a rapid succession of major explosions wrecked the plant of the Pennsylvania Fireworks Display Company near Devon, a suburb sixteen miles from Philadelphia. Upper photo shows the surrounding homes wrecked by the explosion. Lower photo shows military academy students carrying out one of the victims.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

April 5, 1905

The store of M. J. Fingerson of Merrifield was raided last night by two rather desperate men. It is thought they are the same men who robbed the E. Niles store last fall.

At the city council meeting last evening A. H. Bennett was chosen as chief of the fire department.

W. E. Seelye left this afternoon for St. Paul. He will be joined tomorrow by J. N. Nevers and they expect to take a trip west combining business and pleasure.

Thabes Brothers have taken charge of the business which they purchased from John Larson. They will continue the general flour and feed business and will also handle all kinds of lime, cement and wood and coal.

Harry Purdy has taken a position with John Carlson, the clothier. Armer Thayer, a carpenter of Northeast Brainerd left for New York this noon, from which point he will ship to Panama. He has contracted to work at the Isthmus. The new canal commission recently appointed is now in charge and great improvements are expected.

Sig. Guiseppe Creatore, the great Italian band master and his band of 55 pieces appeared at the Brainerd opera house last night. The program given was very excellent.

Mrs. J. A. Thabes returned this afternoon from the Twin Cities where she has been visiting for a few days. Miss Kate Whiteley is home from Grand Forks for a few days.

Harrison P. T. A.
The Harrison P. T. A. will hold its monthly meeting on Monday, April 7, at 7:30 P. M.

The following program has been arranged:
Boy orchestra numbers—Blue Bird Caroleers.

Banjo solo—Paul March accompanied by Mrs. Marsh.
Talk.
Vocal solo—Dr. Carl Anderson.
Refreshments will be served.

XYZ Sewing Circle
The monthly meeting of the XYZ Sewing Circle was held on Friday afternoon, April 4, at the home of Mrs. O. A. Orman, West Brainerd. The business meeting was followed by a social hour after which a delicious luncheon was served, the menu being baked tuna fish, cabbage salad, sandwiches, pickles, cake and coffee. Small cups of candy were placed at each place for favors.

Here are reasons that turn your Spring Suit "IF" into action.

You say you'd like a Spring Suit now IF you could afford it. At the John M. Bye Clothing Co.'s store and at the John M. Bye Clothing Co.'s prices YOU CAN.

IF you were positive of getting a fit in ready to wear clothing. At our store you can buy nothing else—we wouldn't permit it.

IF you were sure of finding just the pattern that struck your fancy. That very pattern is here patiently awaiting you.

Every "IF" you can think up is sent humpty-dumptywise the minute you step foot in our clothing department.

Ore Shipping Season Nears

THE Armour No. 1 and No. 2 mines of the Inland Steel company of the Cuyuna range are shipping from stockpile a trainload of ore every two or three days to Superior, Wis. The Milford mine of the Amherst Mining Company is shipping five cars daily directly from its hoist.

For several years the Armour mines have been the first to ship in spring, and the first of all Lake Superior mines to ship ore. The ore will be stored in docks until the first boat arrives, which usually is an Inland Steel Co. boat, taking ore to its plant in the Chicago district on Lake Michigan. It is expected boats will arrive about April 15, depending on ice getting out of the Soo canal.

Sunday, May 11, Mother's Day

SUNDAY, May 11, is Mother's Day. This is one day in the year, above all others, when you give expression of your undying love for the dear one who toils unselfishly, giving all and expecting nothing in return.

Money can never repay your mother for the wealth of love and devotion she has showered and lavished on you. Love alone can repay for love.

Greetings by card and telegrams and letters, too, bring one in touch. Presents made include flowers, candy and many other tokens of affection.

Historical Society Tour

THE Minnesota Historical society's annual convention and tour will be conducted by train from St. Paul to Fairmont.

Leaving St. Paul June 13, members will meet for convention sessions along the way. Owatonna will be the first day's official stop and Fairmont the second day's stop. Points of historical interest will be visited enroute.

There is a gypsy strain in the society. It gets to its final location by various pilgrimages. In 1928 the society visited Fort Ripley, Mille Laes lake and then held its convention in Brainerd and at Breezy Point.

Reducing Their Debts

NORTHWEST farmers in the last few years have reduced the debts against their land substantially, it has been revealed in statistics prepared by John W. Haw, director of agricultural development of the Northern Pacific railway.

Haw attributed this in a large measure to improved earnings on the farms. While the estimated farm mortgage debt in the United States increased over $100,000,000 between 1925 and 1928, that in Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon declined an aggregate of $2,251,000.

THIS Kaye Don person is evidently not going to be rushed into a race against time at Daytona Beach. The phlegmatic Englishman will not try to crack the mark until every possible condition is 100 per cent perfect. In other words, he is willing to break a record without breaking his neck.

THAT hope deferred maketh the heart sick feeling reaches the highest type of expression when a contributor to a magazine or newspaper does not see the child of his brain for months, and he gets strabismus scanning the sheet looking for his "piece in the paper."

MUNICIPAL tax problems will be considered at the fourteenth annual session of the Minnesota Tax Conference to be conducted at the Nicollet hotel in Minneapolis next Wednesday and Thursday.

IT is believed Little Falls, St. Cloud, Montevideo, Buffalo, Brainerd will be among the high schools teams running in the Central Minnesota relay event at the annual Gopher relays at University of Minnesota field house tonight.

AMONG the football candidates at spring practice at the University of Minnesota were H. R. Nichols, Marion Doane and George Hall of St. Cloud; Earl Knutson of Little Falls, and Marvin Dillner of Duluth.

FISHERMEN may fish in the dark of the moon or even by the light of the moon if they please, but they must not try to improve upon nature. A law passed by the last legislature prohibits the use of artificial lights in any manner for the taking of fish.

THE most exasperating thing we know of is to get a communication from somebody and then have the letter or circular firmly glued to the envelope flap so that you have to tear everything to pieces to see what's in it.

IT is spirit that makes a basketball team, plus natural ability. At the interscholastic meet in Chicago dark horses include teams of water tank towns, one of whom never had an indoor court to work in.

WILLMAR citizens will vote April 9 on the question of abolishing Sunday movies. The same question a year ago was defeated by 150 votes.

As pretty as the posies she carried, Alice Hagen, aged 7, came to the Dispatch office with the first crocuses that she had gathered in West Brainerd.

CENSUS enumerators in the Twin Cities have had odd experiences, some being taken for peddlers and denied admittance.

MINNESOTA high schools will compete in two classes at the annual Carleton college interscholastic athletic meet on May 24.

THIRTY state-wide organizations will conduct the Minnesota fire prevention campaign from April 14 to 26 at St. Paul.

THAT Rapid City, S. D., bid to Alphonse Capone to make his home in their country is just a publicity stunt.

MAKING flower and vegetable gardens will soon be the order of the day.

Statement of the Ownership, Management, Circulation, Etc., Required by the Act of Congress, August 24, 1912.

Of Brainerd Daily Dispatch, published daily, except Sunday, at Brainerd, Minnesota, for April 1, 1936.

State of Minnesota, County of Crow Wing, ss.

Before me, a Notary Public in and for the state and county aforesaid personally appeared F. W. Wieland, who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the Business Manager of the Brainerd Daily Dispatch and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management and circulation, etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in Section 413, Postal Laws and Regulations, printed on the reverse of this form, to-wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business managers are:

Publisher: The Brainerd Dispatch Co., Brainerd, Minn.

Editor: F. W. Wieland, Brainerd, Minn.

Managing Editor: F. W. Wieland, Brainerd, Minn.

Business Manager: F. W. Wieland, Brainerd, Minn.

2. That the owners are: H. C. Ingerson, Los Angeles, Calif.; F. W. Wieland, Brainerd, Minn.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgages, and other security holders, holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities:

None.

4. That the average number of copies of each issue of this publication sold or distributed, through the mails or otherwise, to said subscribers during the six months preceding the date shown above is 2775.

F. W. WIELAND, Business Manager.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 4th day of April, 1936.

JOHN A. HOFFBAUER, Notary Public Crow Wing County.

My commission expires Nov. 27, 1932.

Big kernels in small shells

In addition to the advertisements of the big department stores, of the grocery and hardware stores, of the millinery, clothing and shoe stores, there is another kind of advertising that is being read more and more by readers of this newspaper. That kind of advertising is the Classified Columns.

A man or woman wants a job. They read the "Help Wanted" columns and probably insert an advertisement of their own under "Positions Wanted." Employer and job seeker soon get together to the benefit of both. A man may want an automobile—possibly he cannot afford a new car, so he looks in the "For Sale" columns and finds just the car at the price he can afford to pay. Some one has lost a pocketbook, valuable papers or even a pet dog. The "Lost and Found" columns soon bring loser and finder together.

The Classified Columns are so arranged that any one can readily find what he seeks quickly—business news, machinery and tools, household goods, horses, dogs, cats, canaries, etc. They enable you to locate what you are looking for in short order. So in reading advertising do not overlook the classified columns—the individual advertisements do not take up much room, but like the meaty nut they may contain a big kernel in a small shell—just for you.

Read the advertisements for your own good . . . classified columns as well as display advertisements

Ore Shipping Season Nears

THE Armour No. 1 and No. 2 mines of the Inland Steel company of the Cuyuna range are shipping from stockpile a trainload of ore every two or three days to Superior, Wis. The Milford mine of the Amherst Mining Company is shipping five cars daily directly from its hoist.

For several years the Armour mines have been the first to ship in spring, and the first of all Lake Superior mines to ship ore. The ore will be stored in docks until the first boat arrives, which usually is an Inland Steel Co. boat, taking ore to its plant in the Chicago district on Lake Michigan. It is expected boats will arrive about April 15, depending on ice getting out of the Soo canal.

Sunday, May 11, Mother's Day

SUNDAY, May 11, is Mother's Day. This is one day in the year, above all others, when you give expression of your undying love for the dear one who toils unselfishly, giving all and expecting nothing in return.

Money can never repay your mother for the wealth of love and devotion she has showered and lavished on you. Love alone can repay for love.

Greetings by card and telegrams and letters, too, bring one in touch. Presents made include flowers, candy and many other tokens of affection.

Historical Society Tour

THE Minnesota Historical society's annual convention and tour will be conducted by train from St. Paul to Fairmont.

Leaving St. Paul June 13, members will meet for convention sessions along the way. Owatonna will be the first day's official stop and Fairmont the second day's stop. Points of historical interest will be visited enroute.

There is a gypsy strain in the society. It gets to its final location by various pilgrimages. In 1928 the society visited Fort Topley, Mille Lacs lake and then held its convention in Brainerd and at Breezy Point.

Reducing Their Debts

NORTHWEST farmers in the last few years have reduced the debts against their land substantially, it has been revealed in statistics prepared by John W. Haw, director of agricultural development of the Northern Pacific railway.

Haw attributed this in a large measure to improved earnings in the farms. While the estimated farm mortgage debt in the United States increased over $100,000,000 between 1925 and 1928, that in Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon declined an aggregate of $2,251,000.

THIS Kaye Don person is evidently not going to be rushed into a race against time at Daytona Beach. The phlegmatic Englishman will not try to crack the mark until every possible condition is 100 per cent perfect. In other words, he is willing to break a record without breaking his neck.

THAT hope deferred maketh the heart sick feeling reaches the highest type of expression when a contributor to a magazine or newspaper does not see the child of his brain for months, and he gets strabismus scanning the sheet looking for his "piece in the paper."

Big kernels in small shells

In addition to the advertisements of the big department stores, of the grocery and hardware stores, of the millinery, clothing and shoe stores, there is another kind of advertising that is being read more and more by readers of this newspaper. That kind of advertising is the Classified Columns.

A man or woman wants a job. They read the "Help Wanted" columns and probably insert an advertisement of their own under "Positions Wanted." Employer and job seeker soon get together to the benefit of both. A man may want an automobile—possibly he cannot afford a new car, so he looks in the "For Sale" columns and finds just the car at the price he can afford to pay. Some one has lost a pocketbook, valuable papers or even a pet dog. The "Lost and Found" columns soon bring loser and finder together.

The Classified Columns are so arranged that any one can readily find what he seeks quickly—business news, machinery and tools, household goods, horses, dogs, cats, canaries, etc. They enable you to locate what you are looking for in short order. So in reading advertising do not overlook the classified columns—the individual advertisements do not take up much room, but like the meaty nut they may contain a big kernel in a small shell—just for you.

JENA GIANTS AND ATHENS HORNETS MAY FACE IN FINALS

FOUR TEAMS IN SEMI-FINALS THIS AFTERNOON

JENA, LOUISIANA, TEAM ARE THE DARK HORSES OF THE TOURNAMENT

ST. JOHN'S OF DELAFIELD OVERCAME 10-POINT LEAD AGAINST BRASELTON, GA.

By BERT DEMBY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chicago, April 5.—The Giants from Jena, Louisiana, "dark horses" of the tournament, and the Hornets of Athens, Texas, stood out today as four teams went into the semi-final round of the twelfth annual scramble for the national high school basketball title.

Survivors of 36 starters, the four—besides Jena and Athens—there are St. John's Military Academy, Delafield, Wis., and Corinth, Ky., still in the running—with one exception have reached the semi-finals fairly easily.

St. John's is the exception. It overcame a ten-point lead last night principally because Braselton, Ga., was inclined to loaf. Possessing probably the most highly polished offense in the tournament, the St. John's outfit lacks size and that was why Athens was favored to beat the Wisconsin outfit today.

Athens, without a doubt, is the "team to beat" in the tournament. Jena seems to be the only obstruction. The Louisianians have a great team. They possess the best field general and floor guard in the tournament in Sparkie Wade.

Pairings in the tournament semi-final round today follow:

2 P. M.—Jena, La., vs. Corinth, Ky.
3 P. M.—Athens, Texas, vs. St. John's Military Academy, Delafield, Wis.

BERG WINS CLOSE DECISION AGAINST JOE GLICK

GAGNON GIVEN NICE OFFER TO MEET GRIFFITHS

Chicago, April 5.—(U.P.)—Nate Lewis, matchmaker for the Chicago stadium, announced today he had offered Jack Gagnon, Boston heavyweight, 30 per cent of the net gate receipts to meet Tuffy Griffiths, Iowa's aspirant to the heavyweight crown, in a match here April 30.

Gagnon, who knocked out Tuffy in six rounds at Philadelphia, has not answered the offer, Lewis said, although it was understood that Phil Buccola, Gagnon's manager, had announced in Boston that the terms were satisfactory.

Lewis said the stadium was attempting to re-match the fighters because of demands of middle weight boxing fans who hold that Gagnon's victory over Griffiths was a fluke.

BERG'S SHOWING, HOWEVER, WAS DISAPPOINTING

JACKIE WAS SLOW, OUT OF CONDITION, 5 POUNDS OVER BEST FIGHTING WEIGHT

WISE MONEY WAS 5 TO 1 ON THE YOUNG ENGLISH FIGHTER

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Staff Editor)

New York, April 5.—Jack "Kid" Berg, England's popular little fighting man, is with us again with a new title and some superfluous flesh around his midriff. Neither addition seems to be of much use to the youngster.

Against Joe Glick, the Brooklyn button hole maker, whom he outpointed in Madison Square Garden last night, Berg made a most disappointing showing. Jackie was slow and out of condition, obviously five pounds over his best fighting weight. He scaled 130 1/4 for his bout with Glick, in the capacity of junior welterweight champion, a title which is not recognized in New York state.

The "wise money" was down on Berg at 5 to 1, and once again the "wise money" bettors nearly stopped a fast one with the delicate portions of their bank rolls. Glick, content to tie up the slow-moving Englishman, prevented Jackie from cutting loose in his familiar windmill style. As a result, and with Berg down twice in the eighth from pretty low body punches, it was a close thing. Jackie's margin was by no means what one might reasonably expect of a 1 to 5 shot.

Berg is enroute to Toronto to meet Hackie Phillips of Canada Monday night. He probably will fight his way back into the superb condition which marked his previous American appearances and his title fight in which he stopped Mushy Callahan at Albert Hall, London, February 18. Jackie had not fought since winning the synthetic 140-pound title until last night.

The decision of the officials at the end of the ten rounds was unanimous, Berg's aggressiveness, ineffectual though it was, earning him the call.

COTTAGE GRILL INCREASES LEAD IN LADIES' LEAGUE

WITH 4 BOWLERS THEY WON LAST TWO GAMES FROM SERVICE NEWS

The Cottage Grill added two more games to widen their lead in the Ladies' League. With four bowlers they won the last two games from Service News. Ida Kerstein had high total of the evening. She rolled games of 154, 168 and 127 for a 449 total. Marcella Kampmann also had a nice 444 total, having games of 128, 156 and 160. Dorothy Hanson was high on the Service News team with 382.

The Princess Kandy Kids handed three defeats to the Northern States Power who were minus a player. They won the first game by 18 pins and the second by 23 pins, both close to the end. Mrs. Swanson regained high average by rolling a 428 total. She now has 125 plus 26 pins and Elaine Hartley 124 plus 30 pins. Mrs. Swanson rolled a big 181 her second game. This was high score for the evening.

The E. M. B. A. are still away up on top of the Handicap League leading by three full games. Study Club picked up a game by taking three games Tuesday evening, as E. M. B. A. dropped one game to the Moose last night. The first game Clayton Rardin again cracked the ten pins for a big 236. This with H. Goltz's 186 won the game for the leaders with a 900 total. The second game was nip and tuck all the way through, E. M. B. A. finally edging out the Moose by eight pins margin. The last game the Moose came back strong, rolling 920. Goltz with 181 and L. Montgomery with 180 were responsible for the win. Rardin was star bowler with 562. He also has high average in the Handicap League, topping Dr. Hawkinson by 25 pins total. Rardin 177 plus 42 pins and Dr. Hawkinson 177 plus 17 pins. C. Nelson and Goltz both made over 500. L. Montgomery was high bowler for the Moose.

In the other match the Lions Club took all three games from Sinclair Oils. Dr. Erickson was high man with 514. Mrs. Block also made over 500 while Don Hayes had the best total on the Oil team.

"Most Valuable Players"

By HARDIN BURNLEY

AL SIMMONS..
WHO WERE BASEBALL'S MOST VALUABLE PLAYERS IN 1929!

CONSENSUS of big league baseball writers, which met with no conspicuous fan disapproval, awarded Rogers Hornsby, of the Chicago Cubs and Al Simmons, of the Philadelphia Athletics, the honor of being "the most valuable player" in the National and American Leagues respectively last season. Hornsby, of course, has been one of the game's greats for many seasons. Simmons has been coming to the fore since 1927. The "Rajah" is an insider—easily the best second baseman since Napoleon Lajoie's prime. The Athletics' Al is about the best all-around outfielder since Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker first came to national attention more than twenty years ago.

While highly satisfactory on defense, it is his offensive hitting power that makes both Hornsby and Simmons diamond standouts. They seem to register .325 or better in routine clouting form and, when "hot," the "Rajah" and Al verge towards the .400 batting average. They not only hit hard and often, but they do so in timely fashion when singles or longer smashes win games. A citation from their general averages for 1929 is interesting in view of their "most valuable player" distinction: Hornsby in 156 games and 602 times at bat, averaged .380, scored 156 runs, and boomed out 40 homers. Simmons in 143 games and 581 times at bat, averaged .365, scored 114 runs, and rapped 34 homers. In fielding, "Rajah" averaged .973; Al .989.

In the 1929 World Series, Hornsby was a compassionate flop, while Simmons scintillated among the Athletic stars. "Rajah" hit for only .238, and fielded .952. He struck out eight times during the five games played! Big Al hit .300 during the series, and fielded perfectly.

Their styles in the batter's box afford the most marked contrast. Hornsby unquestionably is a worthy and perfect successor to Lajoie as a stylist. He is orthodox grace when waiting with his willow for the pitcher's delivery. His stance is an artist's "glass of fashion," and his swing or bunt is a mobile "mould of form." Simmons, on the other hand, is unorthodox in his natural cuts at the ball. Frequently, he seems awkward when he lunges at a curve or crooks the elbows to smash a fast, inside hopper. But Al does hit extra well and, after all, style is secondary. Besides, he has youth—the most important edge of all, when you compare his value and prospects with those of the veteran "Rajah" as the 1930 season dawns.

"Hardest of Shell Games"

By HARDIN BURNLEY

THANKS to the climate, Pacific Coast racing crews are able to hit the water far earlier each Spring than their Atlantic seaboard rivals who are busy, nevertheless, in the grueling grind of the boathouses—the gyms where the foundations are laid for the most physical taxing of all varsity athletics.

For several weeks, Coach "Ky" Ebright has had his University of California stalwarts mastering aquaplane-churned waters. Scores of lithe, youthful six-footers are all trying to make the eight positions in the varsity crew, which will soon row the University of Washington huskies.

This Spring, Coach Ebright has been inveighing publicly against the difficulties of crew practice in waters that are so often whipped into ocean waves by the wash from large and small passenger planes leaving and landing at a local coastal airport. The roar of giant motors all but silences and seems to mock the megaphoning of "Ky" and the pull of his schoolboy rowers, who would develop speed in primitive and puny fashion near a noisy nest of mammoth man-made birds.

However, reports have it that Ebright's "Golden Bears" have shown fine form throughout their shell-tossed trials. Most Californians are confident that they will humble Washington, whose fame, especially in the East, has been spread through a series of remarkable crews.

Ebright's troubled waters in this Air Age add but another angle to what many experts call "the hardest of all sports," college or otherwise. They mean that it takes more physical power and courage to row a four-mile race in a crew than any other athletic activity requires. The supreme effort in such a race (and everyone knows that a "college try" means the limit in that line), exacts every bit of strength and stamina a oarsman has in body and competitive soul.

Oarsmen must train rigidly for months, practise constantly to get the rhythm of the sweeps, and then "shoot the works" in a 4-mile contest that lasts but twenty minutes or a little more. When the race is close, victors and vanquished alike are exhausted after the finish.

Dempsy in his smashing prime, punching steadily for twenty minutes with everything he had in each wallop—that gives a rough idea of what each hardy sweep has to do in a 4-mile varsity race.

No wonder "Ky" Ebright comes close to cussing when the roar and splash of mere motors trespass on the rowing trials which develop such magnificent man power! There is "Prometheus fire in his protests," as Gene Tunney might say.

BERG WINS CLOSE DECISION AGAINST JOE GLICK

GAGNON GIVEN NICE OFFER TO MEET GRIFFITHS

Chicago, April 5.—(U.P.)—Nate Lewis, matchmaker for the Chicago stadium, announced today he had offered Jack Gagnon, Boston heavyweight, 30 per cent of the net gate receipts to meet Tuffy Griffiths, Iowa's aspirant to the heavyweight crown, in a match here April 30.

Gagnon, who knocked out Tuffy in six rounds at Philadelphia, has not answered the offer, Lewis said, although it was understood that Phil Buccola, Gagnon's manager, had announced in Boston that the terms were satisfactory.

Lewis said the stadium was attempting to re-match the fighters because of demands of middle west boxing fans who hold that Gagnon's victory over Griffiths was a fluke.

New York, April 5.—Jack "Kid" Berg, England's popular little fighting man, is with us again with a new title and some superfluous flesh around his midriff. Neither addition seems to be of much use to the youngster.

Against Joe Glick, the Brooklyn button hole maker, whom he outpointed in Madison Square Garden last night, Berg made a most disappointing showing. Jackie was slow and out of condition, obviously five pounds over his best fighting weight. He scaled 130 1/4 for his bout with Glick, in the capacity of junior welterweight champion, a title which is not recognized in New York state.

The "wise money" was down on Berg at 5 to 1, and once again the "wise money" bettors nearly stopped a fast one with the delicate portions of their bank rolls. Glick, content to tie up the slow-moving Englishman, prevented Jackie from cutting loose in his familiar windmill style. As a result, and with Berg down twice in the eight from pretty low body punches, it was a close thing. Jackie's margin was by no means what one might reasonably expect of a 1 to 5 shot.

Berg is enroute to Toronto to meet Hackie Phillips of Canada Monday night. He probably will fight his way back into the superb condition which marked his previous American appearances and his title fight in which he stopped Mushy Callahan at Albert Hall, London, February 18. Jackie had not fought since winning the synthetic 140-pound title until last night. The decision of the officials at the end of the ten rounds was unanimous. Berg's aggressiveness, ineffectual though it was, earning him the call.

The E. M. B. A. are still away up on top of the Handicap League leading by three full games. Study Club picked up a game by taking three games Tuesday evening, as E. M. B. A. dropped one game to the Moose last night. The first game Clayton Rardin again cracked the ten pins for a big 236. This with H. Golt's 186 won the game for the leaders with a 900 total. The second game was nip and tuck all the way through, E. M. B. A. finally edging out the Moose by eight pins margin. The last game the Moose came back strong, rolling 920. Miller with 181 and L. Montgomery with 180 were responsible for the win.

Rardin was star bowler with 562. He also has high average in the Handicap League, topping Dr. Hawkinson by 25 pins total. Rardin 177

"Most Valuable Players"

By HARDIN BURNLEY

AL SIMMONS.. AND (Left) ROGERS HORNSBY.. WHO WERE BASEBALL'S MOST VALUABLE PLAYERS IN 1929!

CONSENSUS of big league baseball writers, which met with no conspicuous fan disapproval, awarded Rogers Hornsby, of the Chicago Cubs and Al Simmons, of the Philadelphia Athletics, the honor of being "the most valuable player" in the National and American Leagues respectively last season. Hornsby, of course, has been one of the game's greats for many seasons. Simmons has been coming to the fore since 1927. The "Rajah" is an infielder—easily the best second baseman since Napoleon Lajoie's prime. The Athletics' Al is about the best all-round outfielder since Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker first came to national attention more than twenty years ago.

While highly satisfactory on defense, it is their offensive hitting power that makes both Hornsby and Simmons diamond standouts. They seem to register .325 or better in routine clouting form and, when "hot," the "Rajah" and Al verge towards the .400 batting average. They not only hit hard and often, but they do so in timely fashion when singles or longer smashes win games. A citation from their general averages for 1929 is interesting in view of their "most valuable player" distinction: Hornsby in 156 games and 602 times at bat, averaged .330, scored 156 runs, and boomed out 40 homers. Simmons in 143 games and 581 times at bat, averaged .365, scored 114 runs, and rapped 34 homers. In fielding, "Rajah" averaged .973; Al .959.

In the 1929 World Series, Hornsby was a comparative flop, while Simmons scintillated among the Athletics stars. "Rajah" hit for only .235, and fielded .952. He struck out eight times during the five games played! Big Al hit .300 during the series, and fielded perfectly.

Their styles in the batter's box afford the most marked contrast. Hornsby unquestionably is a worthy and perfect successor to Lajoie as a stylist. He is orthodox grace when waiting with his willow for the pitcher's delivery. His stance is an artist's "glass of fashion," and his swing or bunt is a mobile "mould of form." Simmons, on the other hand, is unorthodox in his natural cuts at the ball. Frequently, he seems awkward when he lunges at a curve or crooks the elbows to smash a fast, extra well and, after all, style is secondary. Besides, he has youth—the most important edge of all, when you compare his value and prospects with those of the veteran "Rajah" as the 1930 season dawns.

"Hardest of Shell Games"

By HARDIN BURNLEY

THANKS to the climate, Pacific Coast racing crews are able to hit the water far earlier each Spring than their Atlantic seaboard rivals who are busy, nevertheless, in the gruelling grind of the boathouses—the gyms where the foundations are laid for the most physical taxing of all variety athletics.

For several weeks, Coach "Ky" Ebright has had his University of California stalwarts mastering aquaplane-churned waters. Scores of lithe, youthful six-footers are all trying to make the eight positions in the varsity crew, which will soon row the University of Washington huskies.

This Spring, Coach Ebright has been inveighing publicly against the difficulties of crew practice in waters that are so often whipped into ocean waves by the wash from large and small passenger planes leaving and landing at a local coastal airport. The roar of giant

PATOU OPPOSED

TO LONG SKIRTS

"I am not only disappointed, I am horrified at what I have seen," cried M. Patou, noted style-designer of Paris and originator of the high waisted and longer skirt, upon his arrival in New York City. "Surely something has gone wrong," he asserted, when he saw long skirts being worn everywhere.

"A luxury fashion intended for elegant women and grand social occasions greets you in the subways, offices, and on the streets, in store," he complains. "We intended practical clothes to remain as they were. These clothes that are being worn are cheaply frilly, inartistic, out-of-place. Long dresses are intended for tea, formal dinners, and balls. Never, never, have I intended them for the masses. I have never been so upset."

Then, Monsieur Patou went on to say that he thought the American girls were cute as they were.

"The American woman looked all right in short-skirted, boyish fashions with her Diana-like figure," he laments. "But the boyish style did not look as well on the French and South American woman. We decided to create a special style for them and for the elegant American woman when we created these long skirts. And now all the smart little working girls are wearing them, and have spoiled their natural charm. It is too bad."

Miss Helen Kelly of Altkin and Brainerd, upon her recent return from Paris, expressed almost the same degree of surprise that Monsieur Patou has done, upon seeing numerous American women attired in long, flowing skirts, that almost brush the streets. In Paris, she said, the knee-length dresses were still the thing for street and sport-wear. And it is an actual fact that the most modern of women and girls have little occasion for other than practical and sports costumes these days.

The long skirt is actually far from popular. Men now deride it, and women don it distastefully. Many a woman has found that while she looks like a dodd in pink ruffles, she is a sight for sore eyes in a natty and smart sports costume or street dress.

So on picking your Easter costume, better see to it that there is a good margin between the hemline and the floor or street! Just below the knees is a nice length for young women, and a few inches longer, depending on height, for the older woman. Very young girls can, and will, wear their skirts just where they like!

El Brendel Keeps Funny Side Up in "Sunny Side Up"

El Brendel, who has garnered as many laughs on the musical comedy and vaudeville stage and on the screen as any other comic in the business, has made a specialty of Swedish characters since 1917.

Brendel, who makes his screen musical debut in "Sunny Side Up," the Fox Movietone musical comedy featuring Janet Gaynor and Charlie Farrell, made his vaudeville debut in 1911. At that time, he went in for heavy German impersonations, of the "Oscar and Adolph" type.

With the war, however, German comedians went out of existence. After doing his share of fighting, Brendel returned to the stage with a slightly changed character, a Swedish comedian. Since then, he has scored much success doing "Yon Yonson" roles.

Strangely enough, Brendel is neither German nor Swedish, having been born in Philadelphia, of Pennsylvania Dutch ancestry.

PATOU OPPOSED

TO LONG SKIRTS

"I am not only disappointed, I am horrified at what I have seen," cried M. Patou, noted style-designer of Paris and originator of the high waisted and longer skirt, upon his arrival in New York City. "Surely something has gone wrong," he asserted, when he saw long skirts being worn everywhere.

"A luxury fashion intended for elegant women and grand social occasions greets you in the subways, offices, and on the streets, in stores," he complains. "We intended practical clothes to remain as they were. These clothes that are being worn are cheaply frilly, inartistic, out-of-place. Long dresses are intended for teas, formal dinners, and balls. Never, never, have I intended them for the masses. I have never been so upset."

Then, Monsieur Patou went on to say that he thought the American girls were cute as they were.

"The American woman looked all right in short-skirted, boyish fashion with her Diana-like figure," he lamented. "But the boyish style did not look as well on the French and South American woman. We decided to create a special style for them and for the elegant American woman when we created these long skirts. And now all the smart little working girls are wearing them, and have spoiled their natural charm. It is too bad."

Miss Helen Kelly of Aitkin and Brainerd, upon her recent return from Paris, expressed almost the same degree of surprise that Monsieur Patou has done, upon seeing numerous American women attired in long, flowing skirts that almost brush the streets in Paris, she said, the knee-length dresses were still the thing for street and sport-wear. "And it is an actual fact that the most modern of women and girls have little occasion for other than practical and sports costumes these days."

The long skirt is actually far from popular. Men now deride it, and women don it distastefully. Many a woman has found that while she looks like a dodd in pink ruffles, she is a sight for sore eyes in a natty and smart sports costume or street dress.

So on picking your Easter costume, better see to it that there is a good margin between the hemline and the floor or street! Just below the knees is a nice length for young women, and a few inches longer, depending on height, for the older woman. Very young girls can, and will, wear their skirts just where they like!

El Brendel Keeps Funny Side Up in "Sunny Side Up"

El Brendel, who has garnered as many laughs on the musical comedy and vaudeville stage and on the screen as any other comic in the business, has made a specialty of Swedish characters since 1917.

Brendel, who makes his screen musical debut in "Sunny Side Up," the Fox Movietone musical comedy featuring Janet Gaynor and Charlie Farrell, made his vaudeville debut in 1911. At that time, he went in for heavy German impersonations, of the "Oscar and Adolph" type.

With the war, however, German comedians went out of existence. After doing his share of fighting, Brendel returned to the stage with a slightly changed character, a Swedish comedian. Since then, he has scored much success doing "Yon Yonson" roles.

Strangely enough, Brendel is neither German nor Swedish, having been born in Philadelphia, of Pennsylvania Dutch ancestry.

CLAIMS WOMAN CUT BY BROKEN LIQUOR FLASK

Judge Ryan Denies Motion Asking for Lessening of Crime Charge Against Sauge

"NOT GUILTY" ENTERED

Prisoner Asserts in Petition Mrs. Zodrow Received Cut From Broken Glass

In a petition to plead guilty to second degree manslaughter Ole Sauge, charged with the slaying of Mrs. Wm. Zodrow at Ironton, asserts that the woman met her death by a cut from a broken liquor flask rather than by a knife.

The petition was presented to Judge M. E. Ryan in district court late yesterday afternoon when Sauge was arraigned to enter a plea to first degree manslaughter. Judge Ryan denied the motion asking for a lessening of the degree in the manslaughter charge.

When asked what his plea was to the charge of manslaughter in the first degree Sauge refused to enter a plea. Judge Ryan ordered that the clerk set down his plea as not guilty.

In addressing the court Attorney McAlpine stated that Sauge had informed him that he was willing to enter a plea of guilty to manslaughter in the second degree. He stated that in his opinion the state's evidence was circumstantial and did not constitute a first degree charge.

County Attorney Arthur J. Sullivan advised the court that he was in no position to recommend a plea to manslaughter in the second degree and stated in opposing the motion that he felt that case does not justify a lesser degree.

The prisoner claimed in the petition that when he slipped on the ice outside the Johnson house following an altercation with Mrs. Zodrow concerning her alleged going out with other men that a liquor flask in his hip pocket broke. He stated that he reached in his pocket to throw the glass away and that Mrs. Zodrow received the cut when he attempted to push her away. He said he had the broken glass of the flask in his hand at the time.

Sauge further contended that he was not in possession of the knife on his person the evening Mrs. Zodrow met her death.

The Sauge case will be tried at the May term of court.

Conviction of the charge of manslaughter in the first degree carries a sentence in prison of five to 20 years while conviction of the charge of second degree manslaughter carries a sentence by law of one to 15 years.

Sauge was indicted by the grand jury of manslaughter in the first degree.

$8,000 EXTRA GAS TAX FOR NEW ROAD

State Allows Same on Appeal by Lowey for South Gull Lake Road

COMMISSIONERS WANT BIDS

Consider Many Roads Petitions for Improvements This Spring

Crow Wing county will not pay one cent towards the construction of the so-called South Gull Lake road this summer which will bring Harrison & Start's golf course, the Brainerd-Pine Beach hotel and Gull lake two miles closer to Brainerd.

This was evident today when it became known that the state of Minnesota had increased its gas tax allowance to the county by $8,000, this additional appropriation being specifically for the road.

The securing of the additional tax allowance was made possible by County Commissioner Frank J. Lowey through a special appeal to the state.

Three and a half miles of new road will be constructed to complete the road south of the lake.

The county board of commissioners in session today voted to call for bids for the construction, bids to be received at the next meeting of the board.

The board also considered a number of petitions for road improvements through the county and was to set a date for a general road inspection tour this afternoon to look over the projects.

Improvements petitioned included the regravelling of White Line Road No. 1 into Ironton in Irondale township, a distance of two and a half miles; the straightening of a road in Allen township starting at Fifty Lakes and extending for half a mile across country on White Line No. 7; the regrading of 21 miles of road on White Line No. 6 in Emily, Little Pine and Ross Lake townships, and the opening of a road on the south shore of Whitefish lake. Work on the roads will be paid 30 per cent by the townships and the remaining by the gas tax allowance.

GREATEST WONDER IN 6,000 YEARS

Topic of Sermon of Rev. Edgar A. Valiant at First Baptist Church

"The Greatest Wonder in Six Thousand Years" is the sermon subject to be treated by Rev. Edgar A. Valiant at the First Baptist church tomorrow evening at 7:45 o'clock.

Vocal and instrumental numbers will feature the music program that will be given by the Pionette family. At the morning hour of worship the communion will be celebrated and Mr. Valiant will present the third table-talk of the series on "The Four R's of the Lord's Table," speaking on "Remembrance."

Troop No. 47 is making elaborate plans to compete in the Scout Round-up to be held in Brainerd April 29.

Donald Olson has been added to the register of Troop No. 46 as a tenderfoot. The other members are making fine records in scouting this season.

Troop No. 43 is getting ready for the Scout Roundup to be held in Brainerd this year on April 29. The roundup has been an annual affair since this area was chartered and promises to be even a greater event this year than any in the past. New competitors include a chariot race, construction of a 200 pound test bridge, a knot roping and singalong from a human tower.

MAN KILLS SELF AT GILBERT LAKE

Body of Emil Wendt, 58, Found This Morning by Boys Playing on Shore

WITHOUT KNOWN KIN

Shoots Self Through Left Temple With .25 Calibre Rifle; Dead Number of Hours

Emil Wendt, 58 year old recluse, suicided by shooting himself through the left temple with a .25 calibre rifle, Coroner D. E. Whitney held following an investigation of the finding of his body today by boys playing on the south shore of Gilbert Lake.

The dead man was not known to have had a home, sleeping in hallways of public buildings in the city. Despondency is given as the cause for the suicide. Coroner D. E. Whitney is attempting to locate relatives residing in Milwaukee, Wis. No inquest will be held.

Wendt lived at Gilbert Lake for several years but left there about six months ago. He worked in the woods but was unable to stand the work. He returned to Brainerd a few weeks ago it was learned.

The gun was found beside the body which had apparently laid for 14 hours before it was found. In the rifle were the discharged cartridge and three loaded shells. The body was found on a point in the lake adjacent to a bay. The spot has been a popular picnic grounds.

ELKS OFFICERS ARE INSTALLED

State President Charles F. Englin of Stillwater Conducts Installation Ceremonies

H. P. DUNN, TOASTMASTER

Many Members Present From Stillwater, St. Cloud and Duluth Enjoy Banquet, Etc.

A large attendance of Elks greeted President Charles F. Englin of Stillwater, head of the Minnesota State Elks Association as he acted as installing officer of the new Elks roll of officers at the ceremonies Thursday evening. The group to direct the destinies of No. 615 is headed by Attorney G. S. Swanson, new Exalted Ruler.

Exalted Ruler Swanson re-appointed to office A. J. Ellison chaplain, Fred Cartwright inner guard, Dr. A. K. Cohen esquire and Walter Folsom musician.

At the banquet served at 6:15 P. M. Hon. H. P. Dunn presided as toastmaster and was a very efficient one. Speakers included Exalted Ruler Swanson, County Exalted Ruler John A. Sullivan, Bud Bird of Bayport, Dr. Hoffman, Reuben G. Thoreen, Dr. Stillwater lodge, A. W. Kleinschmidt of Stillwater lodge, State President Englin, Past Exalted Ruler C. C. Van Essen. The menu was a most satisfying one, including roast beef, mashed potatoes and pan gravy, peas, Parker House rolls, ice cream, cake and coffee and was served by the house social committee.

The lodge session was also largely attended and a social session followed with talent from Minneapolis participating.

Among the visitors present were Don Freeman, former State President and Past Exalted Ruler of St. Cloud lodge; Art Kleinschmidt, State President Englin, Bud Bird, J. L. Becker, Reuben G. Thoreen, William Buelow of Stillwater lodge; Dr. E. W. Kaliber, P. E. R., Julius Jetka, P. E. R., E. W. Falendorf, P. E. R., L. H. Bastien Exalted Ruler of Little Falls lodge and others.

Little Falls lodge extended an invitation to attend their installation ceremonies next Thursday evening.

Crow Wing County Garden Flower Society In Timely Suggestions

The eleventh National Flower and Garden Show is now being held in the auditorium in Minneapolis. It is a spectacle beyond description and anyone who has not seen it should make a special trip, if necessary, to see the wonders of flowerland. It is an opportunity which will not come to Minnesota again for 50 years.

The auditorium is a riot of colors. Both the main and lower floors are laid out in flower gardens of every description. On the main floor, the center of the room is reserved for cut flowers and huge baskets of roses, carnations and various other cut flowers are on display. All around are individual gardens—rose gardens, complete landscapings with full grown maples, birches and spruce in full leaf and foliage, plum and cherry trees in full bloom. One of the most beautiful individual gardens is one made up of tulips, daffodils, hyacinths and lilies. In the center is a sunken lily pool with a fountain. The grass, as in all the gardens, is real. It is grown between burlap in the greenhouse and is as fresh and green as our lawns in June. On the stage of the auditorium, palms rising 25 feet from the outline and the masses of flowers there are from the world's finest collections. In the center is an orchid, of other orchids, magnolias, azaleas, gardenias and other flowers are there in abundance. One of the outstanding features of the entire show is a collection of 16 acacia plants, shipped from Massachusetts and valued at $25,000.

On the lower floor are several rock gardens, complete with their running creeks and rock plants. Two complete cactus gardens with their sandy background, transplanted from Texas. A collection of hydrangeas from Maryland and hundreds of thousands of tulips, daffodils, hyacinths and other plants and flowers.

It is a magnificent display of what horticulture can do and is an inspiration to the amateur to go home and improve his landscape and garden this year.

Those attending should plan to spend at least three hours at the show, as this much time is consumed in just walking through.

The show ends Sunday evening, April 6 and is open daily from 10 A. M. to 11 P. M.

PEP CLASS OF M. E. SPONSORS PROGRAM

Men and Women to Vie For Honors in Providing Best Entertainment

On Tuesday evening, April 8, the Pep Class of the Methodist church will entertain at a program, to be followed by a basket social held in the basement of the church. The program will begin at 8 o'clock. Prizes will be awarded for the best baskets brought.

The program, part of which is given by the ladies of the Pep Class and part by the men of the class, is in the nature of a contest between the two as to which provides the best entertainment. The audience will be the judge. Much work has been put into preparing the program and these efforts are assured of an entertaining evening. The program is as follows:

Overture—orchestra under the direction of Mrs. Louis Knudsen.

Comedy skit, "The Sunday School Teacher's Darling"—by the men of the Pep Class.

Selection—Harmony Four.

Play, "The Revolt"—ladies of the Pep Class.

Musical selection—orchestra.

"The Revolt" by the ladies, which is a short comedy, brings out some of the troubles of Grandma Gregg who is the founder of the Flushing Academy of Household Science for the Young Ladies. Grandma Gregg, played by Alta Franklin, teaches the young ladies the proper treatment of husbands. All young ladies of the city are invited to come and see what an ideal husband should be and all married ladies to see how to make a husband over. The men are invited to come and see themselves as others see them. Others taking part in the play are Dorothy Dunn who is the militant suffragette Susan Jane Jones, Alta Holden who takes the part of Pauline who is working out her tuition, Kate played by Sylvia Peterson, Jane by Leona Bredenberg, Grace by Sophia Fitzsimmons, Edith by Ruth Erickson, Ida by Pearl Fitzsimmons and Mary by Cecil Van Atta, all students at the academy.

In the men's play, Laurence Erickson takes the part of the teacher. Members of the Sunday school class are Carney Peterson, Earl Fitzsimmons, Gerald Dunn, George Senn, Ira L. Peterson and Russell Fitzsimmons.

A cordial invitation is extended to all to come. Bring the whole family. There will be enjoyment for all and lunch will be served to those who do not bring a basket.

"MASTER of MONEY"

BY ROY VICKERS

CHAPTER XLIX.
"SUPPOSE he overawes Abramov and his men—suppose they turn against us?" suggested Shirley.

"Then we have the ransom business all over again," he answered. "They won't cut our throats. We're worth more to them alive. But if that does happen, take the first opportunity to slip into the dug-out. I shall be able to break away to the Serbians, probably—and the Serbians will make short work of Abramov's little lot. But it will only come to that if our diplomacy fails. I've had a bit of training in this sort of thing, you know. The Mexican outlaws are pretty lively people."

Shirley thrilled at his sheer abundance of dynamic energy. He was not worried—he was enjoying himself. In the camp she had seen another side of his nature. She had seen the man of action, brisk, alive and more than a little brutal. "You'll let me stay, won't you, Alan?"

"Oh, yes. Nothing very violent will happen. I'm going to build this railway, Shirley. If Stephanos can stop me, good luck to him! Here he is, by the way. By Jove! Picturesque beggar, isn't he?"

Shirley, too, looked with something approaching admiration at a man of magnificent physique in full Balkan dress astride a passable Arab. His riding boots were new and his accoutrements clean. Behind him, in obvious respectfulness walked Abramov and some thirty of his followers.

As they reached the clearing, Stephanos dismounted and one of Abramov's men took his horse.

Shirley stood close by Alan's side. Stephanos advanced and when within a few paces saluted in Western military fashion. Alan returned the salute and Shirley bowed.

"Well, Stephanos, what do you want?" asked Alan, speaking in French.

"Monsieur is a little abrupt," answered Stephanos, whose accent, Shirley noted, was if anything rather better than Alan's. She watched the blond look contemptuously at Alan's shirt sleeves and obviously contrasted them with his own magnificent "I come on a matter of business. I wish to offer you the protection of my poor forces."

There was a short silence during which Alan waited for Abramov's men to get within earshot.

"Thank you, but you come too late," said Alan. "I have already made arrangements with Abramov."

"Permit me to say that you have done well. My cousin Abramov and his men are well known. But his force is small. My own, for example, is more than double the strength of his."

Monsieur has anything to say?"

"Yes. Go to the devil, Stephanos. Abramov and I will fight you."

"It is hard for Monsieur, who is an American, to understand our ways," said Stephanos, grinning. "You have your armed men here and your scouts. I come into your camp and I tell you that my nearest man is ten miles away from here. I, Stephanos, have not shed blood for three years. It has been unnecessary. My word is sufficient."

"Right! I will accept your word. You will attack this camp. Go ahead and do it," snapped Alan. Shirley was watching Abramov's men. Most of them spoke French enough to follow the palaver, and there was no doubt that they were afraid of Stephanos. They shrank as from a blow at Alan's words of defiance.

"Monsieur is insolent because he believes these men will attack me."

She staggered back a couple of paces. Alan was standing, every muscle taut, his eye on Stephanos, who held the dagger within a few inches of his chest.

"Go and stand by the door of the shack, Shirley," commanded Alan in French. "Don't go in. You can watch me punish this cut-throat."

Breathlessly, Shirley obeyed, then watched, fascinated beyond her control. For some ten seconds neither man had moved. Then Alan's fist crashed into the bandit's face and he fell to the ground, bleeding.

In an instant he was on his feet. With knife upraised, he sprang at a panther springs. She thought that Alan had fallen and her heart missed a beat, but the next moment he was standing up with the

He had gripped her with his right arm while with the left he held a long dagger pointed at Alan.

A little object lesson, Monsieur, all upon Abramov to attack me now."

Before Shirley realized what had happened Stephanos had made a swift catlike movement and seized her. He had gripped her with his right arm and was pressing her close to him, while with the left hand he held a long dagger pointed at Alan. She could just see Alan's face and she forgot the bandit, forgot her own predicament in wonder at what she saw in his eyes.

"Don't do anything, Alan!" she whispered in English, in terror lest he should throw himself upon the bandit's knife.

"Madame pleases me, Monsieur," said Stephanos still holding her. "When I return to this camp to discuss the matter of your ransom, Madame shall be part of the price."

Stephanos released her.

whole weight of Stephanos on his shoulders, his left hand gripping the hand that held the knife.

"Look at this, you fellows!" cried Alan, and slowly turned a complete circle. "Look at Stephanos' knife. See it? Watch it!" A twist of the wrist and the knife fell to the ground. Stephanos was hurled, head-first, after it.

"Oh!" gasped Shirley, the tears streaming down her face. "Oh, how gorgeous!"

For a moment she could see nothing, and when she looked again Alan was bending over his foe, the knife in his hand.

"Get up, Stephanos!" he ordered. The other was sitting, dazed, and did not move. "Get up!" roared Alan, and kicked him violently in the side. "Get up!"

FALSE ALARM OVER CONDITION OF KNUTE ROCKNE

Miami, Fla., April 5.—(U.P.)—All the excitement about the supposed serious condition of Knute Rockne, Notre Dame university's football coach, appears to have arisen from a false alarm.

No one was more surprised to find that he had summoned a specialist from Mayo Brothers clinic in Rochester, Minn., to his bedside here, than Rockne himself when he was found in St. Francis hospital.

BATTLE FOR STATE DE MOLAY TITLE IN BASKETBALL

Minneapolis, April 5.—(U.P.)—Basketball teams from Red Wing, Owatonna and Minneapolis will battle today for the De Molay state title at the University of Minnesota armory.

The teams, who entered the semi-finals after two games yesterday, will clash today to decide the finalists who will play at 8 p. m. tonight.

Red Wing, which has on its team five of the players who started in the state basketball tournament last week end, eliminated Faribault 29 to 11 in the first round and St. Cloud 30 to 16 in the second.

A Minneapolis team eliminated Duluth 19 to 12 in the second round.

CHAPTER XLIX.

"SUPPOSE he overcomes Abramov and his men—suppose they turn against us?" suggested Shirley.

"Then we have the ransom business all over again," he answered. "They won't cut our throats. We're worth more to them alive. But if that does happen, take the first opportunity to slip into the dug-out. I shall be able to break away to the Serbians, probably—and the Serbians will make short work of Abramov's little lot. But it will only come to that if our diplomacy fails. I've had a bit of training in this sort of thing, you know. The Mexican outlaws are pretty lively people."

Shirley thrilled at his sheer abundance of dynamic energy. He was not worried—he was enjoying himself. In the camp she had seen another side of his nature. She had seen the man of action, brisk, alive and more than a little brutal. "You'll let me stay, won't you, Alan?"

"Oh, yes. Nothing very violent will happen. I'm going to build this railway, Shirley. If Stephanos can stop me, good luck to him! Here he is, by the way. By jove! Picturesque beggar, isn't he?"

Shirley, too, looked with something approaching admiration at a man of magnificent physique in a full Balkan dress astride a passable Arab. His riding boots were new and his accoutrements clean. Behind him, in obvious respectfulness, walked Abramov and some thirty of his followers.

As they reached the clearing, Stephanos dismounted and one of Abramov's men took his horse. Shirley stood close by Alan's side. Stephanos advanced and when within a few paces saluted in Western military fashion. Alan returned the salute and Shirley bowed.

"Well, Stephanos, what do you want?" asked Alan, speaking in French.

"Monsieur is a little abrupt," answered Stephanos, whose accent, Shirley noted, was if anything rather better than Alan's. She watched the bandit look contemptuously at Alan's shirt sleeves and obviously contrast them with his own magnificence. "I come on a matter of business. I wish to offer you the protection of my poor forces."

There was a short silence during which Alan waited for Abramov's men to get within earshot.

"Thank you, but you come too late," said Alan. "I have already made arrangements with Abramov."

"Permit me to say that you have done well. My cousin Abramov and his men are well known. But his force is small. My own, for example, is more than double the strength of his."

"Monsieur has anything to say?"

"Yes. Go to the devil, Stephanos. Abramov and I will fight you."

"It is hard for Monsieur, who is an American, to understand our ways," said Stephanos, grinning. "You have your armed men here and your scouts. I come into your camp and I tell you that my nearest man is ten miles away from here. I, Stephanos, have not shed blood for three years. It has been unnecessary. My word is sufficient."

"Right! I will accept your word. You will attack this camp. Go ahead and do it," snapped Alan. Shirley was watching Abramov's men. Most of them spoke French enough to follow the palaver, and there was no doubt that they were afraid of Stephanos. They shrank as from a blow at Alan's words of defiance.

"Monsieur is insolent because he believes these men will attack me."

She staggered back a couple of paces. Alan was standing, every muscle taut, his eye on Stephanos, who held the dagger within a few inches of his chest.

"Go and stand by the door of the shack, Shirley," commanded Alan in French. "Don't go in. You can watch me punish this cut-throat."

Breathlessly, Shirley obeyed, then watched, fascinated beyond her control. For some ten seconds neither man had moved. Then Alan's fist crashed into the bandit's face and he fell to the ground, bleeding.

In an instant he was on his feet. With knife upraised, he sprang as a panther springs. She thought that Alan had fallen and her heart missed a beat, but the next moment he was standing up with the

He had gripped her with his right arm while with the left he held a long dagger pointed at Alan.

A little object lesson, Monsieur, all upon Abramov to attack me now."

Before Shirley realized what had happened Stephanos had made a swift, catlike movement and seized her. He had gripped her with his right arm and was pressing her close to him, while with the left hand he held a long dagger pointed at Alan. She could just see Alan's face, and she forgot the bandit, forgot her own predicament in wonder at what she saw in his eyes.

"Don't do anything, Alan!" she whispered in English, in terror lest he should throw himself upon the bandit's knife.

"Madame pleases me, Monsieur," said Stephanos, still holding her. "When I return to this camp to discuss the matter of your ransom, Madame shall be part of the price."

Stephanos released her.

whole weight of Stephanos on his shoulders, his left hand gripping the hand that held the knife.

"Look at this, you fellows!" cried Alan, and slowly turned a complete circle. "Look at Stephanos' knife. See it? Watch it! A twist of the wrist and the knife fell to the ground. Stephanos was hurled, head-first, after it.

"Oh," gasped Shirley, the tears streaming down her face. "Oh, how gorgeous!"

For a moment she could see nothing, and when she looked again Alan was bending over his foe, the knife in his hand.

"Get up, Stephanos!" he ordered. The other was sitting, dazed, and did not move. "Get up!" roared Alan, and kicked him violently in the side. "Get up!"

FALSE ALARM OVER CONDITION OF KNUTE ROCKNE

Miami, Fla., April 5.—(U.P.)—All the excitement about the supposed serious condition of Knute Rockne, Notre Dame university's football coach, appears to have arisen from a false alarm.

No one was more surprised to find that he had summoned a specialist from Mayo Brothers clinic in Rochester, Minn., to his bedside here, than Rockne himself when he was found in St. Francis hospital.

BATTLE FOR STATE DE MOLAY TITLE IN BASKETBALL

Minneapolis, April 5.—(U.P.)—Basketball teams from Red Wing, Owatonna and Minneapolis will battle today for the De Molay state title at the University of Minnesota armory.

The teams, who entered the semi-finals after two games yesterday, will clash today to decide the finalists who will play at 8 p. m. tonight.

Red Wing, which has on its team five of the players who started in the state basketball tournament last week end, eliminated Faribault 29 to 11 in the first round and St. Cloud 30 to 16 in the second.

A Minneapolis team eliminated Duluth 19 to 12 in the second round.
